Critical Care Paramedic, End of Life Care (EoLC) Lead South East Coast Ambulance Service NHS Foundation Trust

Having started out as an Emergency Medical Technician in 2004 for a UK based statutory Ambulance Service provider, I have since completed training to qualify as a Paramedic, later sub-specialising into pre-hospital led critical care.

Over the years, I have had the absolute delight to be able to further explore, relish and enjoy many areas of clinical practice including research, under-graduate teaching, emergency operations centre based duties as well as managerial duties: always alongside forward-facing clinical responsibilities.

In 2018, I had the great privilege to experience first-hand community led palliative & end of life care, by joining a local Hospice. I have since returned to the Ambulance Service, to lead on palliative & end of life care provision, again alongside clinical duties as a Critical Care Paramedic.
